Spirit of the Elements
by Josephine Wall

"Throughout my career, I have always sought to produce images which are not only pleasing to the eye but also have either a message or a thought-provoking statement within. Hence, many of my paintings contain scenes from nature, the preservation of which is a subject close to my heart. It is also important to me that purchasers of my work do not become bored with the image. This is why I like to paint in such detail and nearly always hide creatures, faces and other items within the painting thus - hopefully - providing years of enjoyment. As people have become used to my style of work, they often find things that are not intentionally there."
